Welcome to the 2018 ALA Midwinter Meeting & Exhibits in Denver!

Uncertainty and change have defined 2017, but libraries have met the challenges well. Our message of Libraries Transform—Libraries Lead has demonstrated how we are essential in our communities. Our advocacy for library funding, school libraries, information policies, and social justice, and against racism and hate will continue to define our work in 2018.

In Denver, we are presenting for the second year, A Symposium on the Future of Libraries, three days of presentations and conversations exploring future trends, challenges and innovations (page 15). Also explore Midwinter’s ALA Master Series (page 14) and the very popular News You Can Use updates (page 20).

We are excited to offer an inspirational and energetic Opening Session with activists, Patrisse Cullors, founder of #BlackLivesMatter, and Marley Dias, organizer of #1000blackgirlbooks, see page 8. The inspiration continues with our other exciting speakers, Junot Díaz, Elizabeth Acevedo, Dave Eggers, Gregory Mone, Bill Nye, and more.

Please join me on Sunday afternoon at the ALA President’s Program, as I moderate a formal debate with a group of ALA members from academic library, public library, and library education backgrounds who will engage the question, “Are Libraries Neutral? Have they ever been? Should they be?” The debate will be followed by commentary from a reactor panel, and will lead to a conversation with attendees. See page 11 for more.

The Exhibit Hall will be the usual energetic hub of the latest products and services, with opportunities to connect with favorite authors. Enjoy the Book Buzz and PopTop stages, and most importantly, the chance to visit with exhibitors and other attendees.

It’s my hope that you enjoy your time at Midwinter—learning, sharing, networking and having fun. And that you leave Denver with a sense of renewal and readiness to tackle and advocate the important work of libraries.

Patrisse Cullors and Marley Dias

Friday, February 9 • 4:00 pm - 5:15 pm

Activists Patrisse Cullors and Marley Dias Open the 2018 ALA Midwinter Meeting & Exhibits

Marley Dias, the girl-wonder who started the #1000blackgirlbooks campaign, interviews Patrisse Cullors, co-founder of the Black Lives Matter movement, to learn what determining factors and mindset led each of these activists and motivated them to take action. Discover these answers and more when two generations tackle issues of inequality and strive for grassroots level solutions.

Cofounder of Black Lives Matter, Patrisse Cullors is an artist, freedom fighter and performance artist. In 2013, Cullors co-founded a global movement with a hashtag #BlackLivesMatter has since become an international organization with dozens of chapters and thousands of determined activists fighting anti-Black racism worldwide.

Given the opportunity to publish her memoirs, Cullors co-wrote When They Call You A Terrorist with journalist asha bandele. The book, with a foreword by activist Angela Davis, is a poetic biography and reflection on humanity. Cullors has been named an NAACP History Maker—and she’s been invited to the White House.

Marley Dias made headlines as a sixth grader, when she started the #1000BlackGirlBooks campaign to collect and donate 1,000 books that featured black girls as the main characters. She realized that she saw no characters like herself in the books she was reading and wanted to make a difference. And a difference she has made with a campaign that has, to date generated more than 10,000 books. She has been featured in the New York Times and was recognized as a “21 under 21” Ambassador for Teen Vogue. In her new book, Marley Dias Gets It Done—and So Can You, which features an introduction by Academy Award-nominated filmmaker Ava DuVernay, Dias shows kids how they can galvanize their strengths to make positive changes in their communities.

*Open to Full Conference registrants only.
Elizabeth Acevedo

Saturday, February 10 • 4:00 pm - 5:00 pm

Elizabeth Acevedo was born as the youngest child of Dominican immigrants. Raised in New York City, her poetry is infused with Dominican bolero and her beloved city’s tough grit. With over 12 years of performance experience, Acevedo has been a featured performer on BET and Mun2, and has delivered several TEDTalks. She has graced renowned venues, such as the Madison Square Garden, the Kennedy Center of the Performing Arts, South Africa's State Theatre, The Bozar in Brussels, and the National Library of Kosovo.

Her passion for poetry has manifested in an increasing body of popular poetry videos, most of which have gone viral and been picked up by PBS, Latina Magazine, Cosmopolitan Magazine, and Upworthy Magazine. She says, “I commit wholeheartedly to the mission that my mother’s stories will not die with her. I believe wholeheartedly telling my own story is an act of love and survival.” Many of her poems have been published, or are forthcoming in Puerto Del Sol, the Callaloo Journal, Poet Lore, Notre Dame Review, and others.

Acevedo is a National Slam Champion, Beltway Grand Slam Champion, a Cave Canem Fellow, Cantomundo Fellow, and participant of the Callaloo Writer's Workshop. She is the author of two poetry collections: Beastgirl & Other Origin Myths and Medusa Reads La Negra's Palm, winner of the 2016 Berkshire Prize. A novel, The Poet X is scheduled for release in March 2018.

Acevedo’s appearance is sponsored by HarperCollins Children’s Books

Junot Díaz
Sunday, February 11 • 10:00 am – 11:00 am

Junot Díaz is the author of the critically acclaimed Drown; The Brief Wondrous Life of Oscar Wao, which won the 2008 Pulitzer Prize and the National Book Critics Circle Award; and This Is How You Lose Her, a New York Times bestseller and National Book Award finalist. By self-admission, Díaz is an agonizingly slow writer and a chronic procrastinator. He once spent five years working on a 15-page story. But he has said, "In my view, a writer is a writer because even when there is no hope, even when nothing you do shows any sign of promise, you keep writing anyway."

Islandborn is Díaz’ first work of fiction for young readers, a picture book illustrated by Leo Espinosa, scheduled for release in March 2018. Little Lola is asked to draw a picture of her home country for school. To help with her assignment, she asks her family, friends, and neighbors for their recollections of the Island. What emerges is a stunning portrait of a place that Lola once called home, and the magic that comes when culture, tradition, and stories are passed down and shared. The book offers a diverse portrait of characters who have migrated to New York from all around the world, and shows the importance of community as they support each other, and their respective cultures.

Junot Díaz was born in the Dominican Republic and raised in New Jersey. He serves on the board of advisers for Freedom University, a volunteer organization in Georgia that provides post-secondary instruction to undocumented immigrants. An immigrant himself, this is a topic he is very passionate about, and one he considers very timely.

A graduate of Rutgers University, Díaz is currently the fiction editor at Boston Review, and the Rudge and Nancy Allen Professor of Writing at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Díaz’s appearance is sponsored by Penguin Young Readers

MLK Holiday Obsrance and Sunrise Celebration

Anthony Graves
Monday, February 12 • 6:30 am – 7:30 am

Author and activist Anthony Graves will deliver the keynote address for the 2018 Celebration. Graves spent over 18 years in prison—including 12 years on death row—after being wrongfully convicted for murder. Upon his exoneration in 2010, he founded the Anthony Graves Foundation, a non-profit that works towards furthering criminal justice reform with a special emphasis on the Texas criminal justice system. Through his foundation, initiatives such as the Humane Investigation Project, Exoneree Speakers Bureau, and C.H.O.I.C.E.S. have provided legal assistance, outreach, and education to people impacted in unjust ways by the criminal justice system. Graves’ book, Infinite Hope, is slated to be released in March of 2018 (Beacon Press). His example of resilience and hope in the face of injustice makes for a particularly poignant commemoration of Dr. Martin Luther King’s legacy.

Are libraries neutral? Have they ever been? Should they be?
Sunday, February 11 • 3:30 pm - 5:30 pm

The question of neutrality in librarianship is an old one. ALA’s 1939 Code of Ethics for Librarians calls for unbiased “recommendations”. This is seen in the ALA Library Bill of Rights principles that present the library as content neutral, open and accessible to all. We will explore the following questions with the aim of challenging our thinking and practices:

- Were libraries ever neutral?
- Has the time come to question neutrality?
- Are libraries through their practices, collections, services and technologies able to be neutral?
- Can libraries be neutral as part of societies and systems that are not neutral?
- Rather than neutral, should we advocate for a distinct set of values?
- How can we do so and maintain trust in our communities?

A group of ALA members from academic library, public library, and library education backgrounds engage the issues. A formal debate, with two speakers in the affirmative and two in the negative, followed by commentary from a reactor panel and a conversation with attendees, moderated by ALA President, Jim Neal.

Debate—Affirmative

Em Claire Knowles serves as the Assistant Dean for Student and Alumni Affairs at the Simmons School of Library and Information Science. She is serving for a second term as a trustee of the Freedom to Read Foundation, and as the foundation’s Vice President.

James LaRue is the Director of the ALA’s Office for Intellectual Freedom, and the Freedom to Read Foundation. Author of The New Inquisition: Understanding and Managing Intellectual Freedom Challenges, LaRue was a public library director for many years, as well as a weekly newspaper columnist and cable TV host. He has written, spoken, and consulted on leadership and organizational development, community engagement, and the future of libraries.

Debate—Negative

Chris Bourg is the Director of Libraries at Massachusetts Institute of Technology (MIT), where she also has oversight of the MIT Press. She has written and spoken extensively on the future of research libraries, diversity and inclusion in higher education, and the role libraries play in advancing social justice and democracy.

R. David Lankes is the Director of the University of South Carolina’s School of Library and Information Science, and recipient of the American Library Association’s 2016 Ken Haycock Award for Promoting Librarianship. His book, The Atlas of New Librarianship, won the 2012 ABC-CLIO/Greenwood Award for the Best Book in Library Literature. Lankes is a passionate advocate for librarians and their essential role in today’s society.

Commentary Panel

Emily Drabinski is the Coordinator of Library Instruction at Long Island University, Brooklyn, where she also serves as secretary of the Long Island University Faculty Federation. She also edits Gender and Sexuality in Information Studies, a book series from Library Juice Press/Litwin Books.

Kathleen de la Peña McCook is a distinguished university professor at the School of Information, University of South Florida in Tampa. She teaches Public Librarianship, Wikipedia and Knowledge Management, and Librarians and Human Rights. She is a member and senator of the United Faculty of Florida, AFT Local 7463, and a member of the Progressive Librarians Guild.

Emily Knox is an assistant professor in the School of Information Sciences at the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign. She is the author of Book Banning in 21st Century America, published by Rowman & Littlefield. Her research interests include information access, intellectual freedom and censorship, information ethics, information policy, and the intersection of print culture and reading practices.

Kelvin Watson is the Director of the Broward County Libraries Division with 38 locations, circulating over 10.5 million items annually, and over 1 million library card holders. He is the Immediate Past President of the Black Caucus of ALA. Kelvin was named the 2016 winner of ALA’s Ernest A. DiMattia Award for Innovation and Service to Community and Profession, and the 2017 DEMCO/BCALA Award for Excellence in Librarianship.

Moderator

ALA President, Jim Neal is University Librarian Emeritus at Columbia University. Previously, he served as the Dean of University Libraries at Indiana University and Johns Hopkins University, and held administrative positions in the libraries at Penn State, Notre Dame, and the City University of New York. Jim is a frequent speaker at national and international conferences, consultant and published author, with focuses in the areas of scholarly communication, intellectual property, digital library programs, and library cooperation. He also serves on the Board of the Freedom to Read Foundation.
Bill Nye and Gregory Mone

Monday, February 12 • 2:00 pm - 3:00 pm

Science educator, mechanical engineer, television host, and New York Times bestselling author, William Sanford “Bill” Nye, and co-author Gregory Mone, a novelist, science journalist, speaker, and children’s book author will close the 2018 ALA Midwinter Meeting & Exhibits.

As creator of the Emmy award-winning, syndicated television show “Bill Nye the Science Guy,” Nye first became a household name while introducing the millennial generation to science and engineering. He now appears in his much-anticipated return to the screen, in the Netflix series, “Bill Nye Saves the World.” Nye, who is on a mission to help foster a scientifically literate society and help people everywhere understand and appreciate the science that makes our world work has appeared on “Good Morning America,” “CNN New Day,” “The Late Show with Stephen Colbert,” “Last Week Tonight with John Oliver,” and “Real Time with Bill Maher,” as a trusted science source.

Mone has covered artificial intelligence, robots, physics, and biology as a magazine writer. “I’m always busy writing about strange people building strange contraptions,” he says. His award-winning children’s books include Fish, Dangerous Waters, and The Truth About Santa: Wormholes, Robots, and What Really Happens on Christmas Eve, which at its heart is about the power of science and technology and which was picked by USA Today as one of its “top five holiday books for geeks.”

In the Jack and the Geniuses series, Nye and Mone take middle-grade readers on a scientific adventure that features real-world science and scientific facts along with action and a mystery that will leave kids guessing until the end, making the books ideal for STEM education. The third book in the series, Lost in the Jungle, is coming May 2018 from Amulet Books, an imprint of ABRAMS.

ALA Youth Media Awards

Monday, February 12 • 8:00 am - 9:00 am (doors open at 7:30 am)
CCC-Mile High Ballroom 2 & 3

Each year the American Library Association honors books, videos, and other outstanding materials for children and teens. Recognized worldwide for the high quality they represent, the ALA Youth Media Awards, including the prestigious, Coretta Scott King Book, Caldecott, Newbery, and Printz Awards, guide parents, educators, librarians, and others in selecting the best materials for youth. Selected by committees composed of librarians and other literature and media experts, the awards encourage original and creative work in the field of children’s and young adult literature and media. Doors open at 7:30 am.

Coverage of the award winners will be published in the Monday issue of COGNOTES, available in the convention center after the announcement.

The ALA also will offer a live webcast of the announcements and results in real-time on Twitter (@ilovelibraries). For more information, please visit: http://ilovelibraries.org/yma.

RUSA Book and Media Awards

Sunday, February 11 • 5:00 pm - 7:00 pm (doors open at 4:45 pm)
HYATT-Centennial A-D

Librarians, publishers and booklovers alike will gather to celebrate the year’s best in fiction, nonfiction, poetry and reference materials for adults. Selected by readers’ advisory and subject specialist experts, the awards and best of lists offer libraries and booksellers quality recommendations to enhance their collections and their own bookshelves.

For the second year, the prestigious Andrew Carnegie Medals for Excellence in Fiction and Nonfiction will be announced during this Midwinter Meeting event. As always, RUSA will also unveil the winners of the Reading List, Notable Books and Listen List selections, the Dartmouth Medal, the Sophie Brody Medal for Jewish literature, the Zora Neale Hurston Award for achievement in promoting African-American literature and the Louis Shores Award for book reviewing. Coverage of the winners will be in the Monday issue of COGNOTES and press releases will be posted online at ala.org immediately following the event. All Midwinter attendees are invited to this free event.
Every Bite of Food We Eat: The Free Library of Philadelphia’s Culinary Literacy Center

Join Liz Fitzgerald, Administrator of the Free Library of Philadelphia’s Culinary Literacy Center (freelibrary.org/cook), to learn how their library is revolutionizing the way Philadelphians think about food, nutrition, and literacy. The Culinary Literacy Center is a dynamic education space where students learn math through measuring, reading through recipes, and science through the process of cooking. Attendees explore multiple literacies in this kitchen classroom, including nutrition for disease prevention and consumer skills that help people on a budget access the health benefits of cooking from scratch. At cooking demonstrations from top chefs and cooking classes with new immigrants, Philadelphians from all walks of life meet each other around a communal table. In a city that loves food and the people who make it, the Free Library of Philadelphia is proud to be the first library in the country to have a dedicated kitchen classroom space.
Symposium on the Future of Libraries

Three days—Saturday, Sunday, and Monday—exploring the many futures for academic, public, school, and special libraries.

Sponsored by ALA’s Center for the Future of Libraries, the Symposium will consider the near-term trends already inspiring innovation in libraries and the longer-term trends that will help us adapt to the needs of our communities.

Attendance is included with 2018 ALA Midwinter Meeting and Exhibits full registration.

PLENARY SESSIONS

A Collaborative Future for Libraries, Museums, and More: Chicago Collections and Lifelong Learning Across the Community
CCC-Room 403

The future of libraries is a collective one. Chicago Collections (http://chicagocollections.org/) is a unique consortium of 30 libraries, archives, museums, historical societies, and scientific organizations across the City of Chicago. Dedicated to promoting discovery, access, and use of primary source materials and professional expertise related to Chicago and its people, this consortium has developed a future-oriented vision for collaboration across face-to-face and digital teaching, learning, collection, and community engagement programs. This session will provide a model for collaboration among diverse cultural heritage organizations that participants may bring home to promote a greater, collective impact for their work in their communities.

Advocating for Our Future: Creative Local Campaigns Help #FundLibraries
CCC-Room 405/407

ALA’s Washington Office is proud to spotlight some of libraries’ most creative responses to proposals early in 2017 to eliminate the Institute of Museum and Library Services and essentially all direct federal library funding. Using their “playbooks,” you’ll learn first-hand how to pull together low-cost, eye-catching campaigns like theirs and what to do after you succeed in generating attention from your patrons, the media, and elected officials who can help fight for library resources. In addition, all attendees will receive materials to recreate one especially colorful featured campaign at home.

Do Space: Technology for Everyone
CCC-Room 401

Do Space is a new kind of technology library launched in Omaha, Nebraska and recently featured on NPR’s All Things Considered as well as the 2016 American Libraries Design Showcase. Operated by an independent nonprofit organization, Do Space aims to empower the community through access to technology and innovative learning experiences. Executive Director Rebecca Stavick will discuss the vision behind the project, lessons learned during its first year of operations, and how the community’s response to this experimental space can help us better understand the future of public libraries.

Libraries Ready to Code from Research to Practice
CCC-Room 402

What does it take to bring a community of researchers, LIS faculty, and practitioners together to learn, design, and implement successful computational thinking (CT) activities for and with youth and families? Find out in this session where the Libraries Ready to Code team describes how a community of learners developed around a common theme of re-envisioning youth librarianship centered around CT. Session participants will practice techniques that seamlessly demonstrate how learning happens through observation and collaboration between stakeholders, partners, and youth.

The Chattanooga Memory Project: Using Technology to Bring Chattanooga’s History to Life
CCC-Room 404

The Chattanooga Memory Project (CMP) is a whole-of-city movement which aims to capture and document precious moments and memories related to Chattanooga; recollections not merely from individual Chattanoogans, but also organizations, associations, companies, nonprofits, and groups.

The Health Needs of Your Community are Increasing, How Will You Meet Them?
CCC-Room 402

A recent Pew study found that health is the second most searched for information online. Public libraries are on the forefront of health information needs of their communities. With a growing population over 65 and increases in chronic disease, the community need for reliable health information and programming tied to health and wellness is growing. This session will cover how to determine the health needs of your community, find local and national partners, funding, and offer sample ideas.
of health and wellness programs. This session is interactive so bring a pen and your thinking caps and be prepared to participate!

Every Day Literacy: South Carolina’s Toolbox for Library Resources

CCC-Room 401

The South Carolina State Library’s goal is to improve literacy throughout the state and provide a model for others, especially libraries serving rural areas. To build capacity for intergenerational literacy programs, SC State Library developed the South Carolina Day by Day Family Literacy Activity Calendar as a comprehensive resource to support the EveryDay Literacy initiative. Items in the toolbox are created or supported by the State Library to provide different activities and training opportunities to build literacy skills in a diverse, fun, and interactive way.

F3: Fine-Free Future

CCC-Room 402

Libraries continue to strive toward more equitable access even as many of our communities face growing income inequality - and the question of library fines has become particularly relevant. This session brings together three experienced library directors who have recently eliminated some or all overdue fines at their libraries to discuss the strategies they used in their communities, the arguments for and against the elimination of fines, their plans to measure impact and success, and how they communicate the issue of overdue fines as critical to any library’s mission of equal access and social equity.

Immersive and Interactive Virtual Reality in Academic and Medical Libraries

CCC-Room 403

Virtual reality (VR) is an emerging technology with the potential to enhance many professions and disciplines, but it presents challenges in creating scaled access, designing useful learning spaces, and providing support to students and instructors. This session will look at two models for integrating virtual reality in learning spaces. NCSU Libraries will share their insights from experimenting with VR services, opening VR learning spaces, and lending VR equipment over the last year and a half. The University of Washington Health Sciences Library will talk through their project, funded by the Institute of Library and Museum Services (IMLS) and the Allen Endowment, to develop immersive virtual reality simulation experiences for use in medical libraries including designing a VR studio space in the library for surgical simulation experiences.

The Front Lines of Intellectual Freedom—Protecting Your Pages with Policy

CCC-Room 404

Every library needs clear policies that guide the selection, weeding, and reconsideration of library resources. A new toolkit from ALA’s Office for Intellectual Freedom provides policy samples, best practices, and instructions on how to handle everything from complaints to donations. Intellectual Freedom Committee Chair Helen Adams and other toolkit authors will review its features and answer questions. Print toolkit packets will be available for all attendees to bring back to their libraries. This session, with the accompanying toolkit, will enable library professionals to rationally and confidently defend their collections and protect them from censorship.

Saturday, February 10 • 4:30 pm – 6:00 pm

An Awesome Ideas Pitch for Libraries

CCC-Room 405/407

The Libraries chapter of the Awesome Foundation, an international organization that forwards the interest of awesome in the universe $1000 at a time, will be hosting its first ever Awesome Ideas Pitch for Libraries during ALA Midwinter. At least eight presenters will pitch short, inspiring ideas that could impact their community, demonstrate a new idea, or improve a tool or service. Judges (and the audience) will choose who walks away with $1000 to work on their idea. For information about the Awesome Foundation, check out: http://www.awesomefoundation.org/en/chapters/libraries

Sunday, February 11 • 8:30 am– 10:00 am

Plenary—Diversity and Equity

CCC-Room 405/407

Sunday, February 11 • 10:30 am – 11:30 am

Blockchain, Open Civic Data, and TV WhiteSpace—Three New Projects

CCC-Room 403

Three new projects funded by the Institute of Museum and Library Services (IMLS) explore libraries’ roles in emerging technologies and their potential impact on communities. Team members will provide an overview of their projects followed by an open discussion on the merits of these projects. Featured projects include Libraries Leading with TV WhiteSpace (Kristen Rebmann for the San Jose State University iSchool); Local Open Civic Data Ecosystems (Toby Greenwalt for the joint project between Carnegie Library of Pittsburgh and the University of Pittsburgh Library System); and Blockchain Technology as a Community Anchor (Sandy Hirsh and Sue Alman for the San Jose State University iSchool). It’s Your Future—Get Ready for It Now!

CCC-Room 405/407

Wouldn’t it be nice to know more about what the future holds for your field and your career? Well, you can! No crystal ball needed. Come join our lively discussion to learn about emerging trends that will make a difference for library professionals. We’ll look at why it’s so important to pay attention to trends, develop a “future mindset” and practice preferred futuring. We’ll also explore 17 critical trends and how you can use them to develop a career/professional development plan guaranteed to keep you on the cutting edge. Come, join us as we step into the future!

Library Island

CCC-Room 401

Visit Library Island and explore the future of libraries using a method unlike any you’ve tried before. This immersive activity combines information experience, roleplay, and design thinking to elicit strategic visions for library services of all kinds. Drawing on experiences from library consultations in Australia, New Zealand, Britain, and the US, it offers attendees a toolkit of fast, practical, cost-effective approaches to develop a collective library vision suitable for information professionals working in institutions and communities of all kinds.
The Library’s Evolution into Centers of Innovation and Learning

CCC-Room 402

Libraries are positioned to address growing equity issues. To do this libraries need to focus on supporting equitable access to technology, career and college readiness and innovative and entrepreneurial opportunities, especially in areas that are underserved. This session will focus on transforming the way service is approached, as well as ways to create change without the need for huge investments in technology. It will particularly focus on future facing frameworks for envisioning your programs and services. Come and join the discussion of how we can transform libraries through service.

Sunday, February 11 • 1:30 pm – 2:30 pm

Advocating for Ourselves: Does Our Profession’s Survival Depend on Public Service Loan Forgiveness (PSLF) Program Policy Support?

CCC-Room 402

Student loan debt levels are in the trillions and the ways to get rid of educational debt are limited to repayment or forgiveness programs. Many are unaware that student loans are exempt from bankruptcy and basic consumer protections. As public servants, library staff are suffering in silence with debt and struggling to qualify for existing Public Service Loan Forgiveness programs. How can we make existing policies effectively work to help current staff, address retention concerns, and attract new talent to our profession? How can we advocate for making new policies that will help staff with educational debt management?

Libraries in the Age of Extended Reality: Virtual Reality (VR), Augmented Reality (AR), Mixed Reality (MR)

CCC-Room 401

Extended Reality (XR), a combination of real and virtual world and human-machine interaction, includes Virtual Reality (VR), Augmented Reality (AR), Mixed Reality (MR) technologies that have become more mainstream over the past few years. This session will explore the current state of XR technologies and how librarians can participate in and contribute to the development of XR applications. XR changes the way we interact with data, creates new forms of user interfaces, and transforms information storage. By looking at current library initiatives like linked data, 3D printing, and digital humanities, we can begin to envision the future of extended reality.

Road Signs to the Future: What Trends Will Affect Your Library?

CCC-Room 405/407

This interactive session will use the Center for the Future of Libraries’ trend cards to bring interested colleagues together in a discussion about the future. Participants will be asked to share their thoughts for how these and other trends will affect their library, how they anticipate new and emerging trends, and how they plan to lead the way to the future in their community. Get insight and advice from your colleagues and build a network of fellow futures-thinkers.

The Future of Learning in Public Libraries

CCC-Room 403

In recent years public libraries have expanded beyond one-off programs to offer MOOCs, flipped classroom language learning, multi-session skill “camps,” and ongoing reading enrichment. What might these recent developments suggest about the future of learning in public libraries, and how should public libraries position themselves within the larger educational ecosystem? After some brief lightning talks from our panelists on how libraries are thinking about patron learning, we’ll open the session to facilitated group discussions. Attendees should come prepared to discuss what the future may have in store for public libraries and learning.

Transforming Event & Collection Discoverability

CCC-Room 404

Linked Data can improve library visibility, discoverability and engagement in your community or campus. Linked Data can boost discoverability of collections, events, databases, and e-resources in search engines like Google, Yahoo, and other sources. We’ll discuss how Linked Data is transforming library awareness and how it can make library assets easily discoverable on the web beyond just your library website and social media pages. You’ll learn how to apply this innovative approach for promoting your invaluable assets online, which will increase your library’s discoverability immensely and further increase engagement, relevancy and outreach opportunities.

Sunday, February 11 • 3:00 pm – 4:00 pm

A New Generation In Charge: How Millennial Leadership is Changing Library Staffing

CCC-Room 401

Millennials are rapidly filling leadership roles in libraries, and hiring priorities are quickly changing due to their impact. Influenced by a desire to do important, meaningful work, millennial managers want to see their values reflected in new employees. These shifting priorities are reframing how candidates are chosen for all levels of library staffing and will change how libraries are shaped in the future. In this panel discussion, millennial hiring managers will discuss their priorities in hiring, how that is reflective of their personal values, and what makes a candidate from any generation successful.

Alexa, What Does Library AI Look Like in the Future?

CCC-Room 402

Artificial intelligence is everywhere. Google Maps gives us directions. Alexa tells us the weather. Siri goes over our agenda for the day. Using only our voice, we can play music, add items to our shopping list, or find out movie times. Imagine a future where you can ask Siri if your library has a subscription to the New York Times, or tell Alexa to add a book to your reading list. Libraries have a unique opportunity to embrace artificial intelligence and to integrate services into these every day devices. This presentation discusses what a world with Library AI would look like and theorizes how to get there.
One-Stop Shop for the Research Lifecycle: Effects of High-Impact Educational Practices on Library Spaces and Services in the Near- and Long-term

CCC-Room 403

Higher education institutions of all sizes are focused on increasing retention and graduation rates and improving student engagement and learning through the usage of High-Impact Educational Practices (HiPs). This emphasis on HiPs has changed (and will continue to change) the spaces and services that university and college libraries offer, especially as libraries become the all-inclusive place in supporting the research lifecycle. Therefore, it is important for library staff to understand what HiPs are, how institutions are using them, and the impact that they already have and may have on libraries in the near- and long-term.

Virtual Teen Dream: Embedding Virtual Reality into Teen Programming

CCC-Room 405/407

With the introduction of the Oculus and Vive gaming systems, virtual reality (VR) is now more affordable and dynamic than ever before. This session is designed to illuminate the steps taken in creating virtual reality spaces and programming for teens, and to provide resources and advice on incorporating VR into your own library plans. We will highlight the proposal, funding and infrastructural processes and challenges, as well as discuss how to design meaningful standards-based VR programming.

Monday, February 12 • 8:30 am – 10:00 am

Plenary—Civic Innovation

CCC-Room 405/407

Monday, February 12 • 10:30 am – 11:30 am

Equity-Driven Services and Programs: Exploring Alternative Information Services at the Library

CCC-Room 401

Summer youth programs. Online high school. Social workers in the library. Public library programs and services are transforming to meet societal shifts in communities while staying true to our mission of equity and access. This session will focus on Denver Public Library’s efforts to better understand community needs and develop equity driven services and programs. The evolution of several programs represents the continuous efforts to anticipate future needs and the importance of putting equity first.

Is Your Library STEM Ready?

CCC-Room 402

Join STAR Library Network team members to learn about a forthcoming STEM Readiness Tool. Access free Science-Technology Activities and Resources (“STAR”) to help your library facilitate STEM learning. Hear the preliminary results of a nationwide survey that examines libraries in terms of resources, willingness, and support to intentionally deliver STEM-related experiences to their communities. Learn about eight actionable recommendations for advancing equity-related goals through STEM. Engage in a question and answer session with our team.

Libraries as Community Partners in the Workforce Development System

CCC-Room 404

Public Libraries have been active supporters of workforce development in their communities - from offering free computer and internet access, training on digital skills and resume writing, online learning, and small business resources, and more recently career exploration through STEM programming and makerspaces. Increasingly, libraries at the state and local level have sought and gained formal recognition for their efforts, taking seats on committees, workforce development boards, and registering libraries as Workforce Connection Sites. This session shares tips and recommendations for who, what, where, and how to get started or leap forward in your own workforce development efforts.

Sustainability Strategies for Libraries & Communities

CCC-Room 403

Sustainability initiatives and efforts help move libraries toward a more equitable, healthy, and economically viable society. This session assembles practitioners doing sustainability work in a range of settings, including the implementation of a regional certification program, an institutional transition to renewable energy sources, a university system-wide sustainable OER initiative, and a classroom approach to teaching information literacy from a civic engagement perspective. Panelists will explore how their sustainability efforts are changing the way libraries operate and provide services, creating new opportunities for growth and partnerships, and meeting the needs of their communities. This session is sponsored by ALA’s Sustainability Round Table.

Web Literate Library Staff: Keeping the Internet a Free and Public Resource

CCC-Room 405/407

Libraries are 21st century digital hubs, and like the internet, they are designed to be inclusive, free, and accessible. The Mozilla Foundation, through a generous grant from IMLS, partnered with library systems to test, train, and credential library staff on web literacy skills and train a cadre of web literacy leaders. We will share resources for teaching the web, raising awareness on issues such as privacy and safety, and lessons learned for scaling.

THE CONVERSATION STARTS HERE...

Saturday, February 10 • 8:30 am – 10:00 am

The AASL Standards - Personas, Standards, and Your Communities (AASL)
CCC-Room 503/504

Learn how research data was used to develop National School Library Standards and an agile implementation plan. An AASL panel will provide a broad overview of three interrelated standards frameworks, community research findings, and its process to develop personas representing user segments, informing messaging, materials, and products. Through the lens of these personas in public, academic, and other kinds of libraries, we will look at how the AASL Standards support projects like engineering design challenges, culturally responsive programming, and collaboration with community partners.

Saturday, February 10 • 10:30 am – 11:30 am

National Library Legislative Day - State Coordinator Forum (ALA-WO)
CCC-Room 503/504

Are you currently acting as the National Library Legislative Day (NLLD) coordinator for your state? Join state coordinators from across the country for a chance to discuss NLLD 2018 in person! Share ideas for recruiting delegation members, preparing leave behind materials, and strategize with veteran advocates and Washington Office staff. Whether you’ve been a state coordinator for years, or you are just starting out, this is a great opportunity to network with fellow library advocates and develop a place for NLLD 2018.

Saturday, February 10 • 1:00 pm – 2:30 pm

Project Outcome: Three-Year Data Reflection & Future Activities (PLA)
CCC-Room 501/502

The Public Library Association’s (PLA) Project Outcome (https://www.projectoutcome.org) is a free online toolkit designed to help public libraries understand and share the impact of their programs and services by providing simple, standardized surveys, and an easy-to-use process for measuring and analyzing outcomes. As Project Outcome reflects on its three years of grant-supported outreach and developments, discover how libraries are utilizing and benefiting from the toolkit and how their outcomes data are informing and supporting programs and services. Learn how PLA plans to continue to support and advance public libraries’ adoption of outcomes measurement; helping turn better data into better libraries.

Saturday, February 10 • 4:30 pm – 5:30 pm

The Digital Public Library of America’s Next Chapter (DPLA)
CCC-Room 501/502

The new Executive Director of the Digital Public Library of America, John S. Bracken will give an overview of the organization’s plans for 2018, including libraries’ role in designing and implementing new digital technologies, and updates on its efforts in ebooks and education. There will also be ample time for questions and interactions with the DPLA team.

The Harwood Institute and Libraries Transforming Communities (ALA-PP0)
CCC-Room 503/504

The Harwood Institute (www.theharwoodinstitute.org), a partner in ALA’s Libraries Transforming Communities (LTC) Initiative, has developed a suite of new tools to help librarians adopt the practice of “Turning Outward” and the competencies needed to develop and track progress. Join Rich Harwood, President and Founder of The Harwood Institute, and librarians experienced in Turning Outward to learn how libraries are leveraging these tools for impact, and how Turning Outward is spreading through the field. Print copies of the new tools will be distributed at this session.

Diversity Research Grants Update (ALA-ODLOS)
CCC-Room 501/502

Join us for an update from the 2017-2018 Diversity Research Grant recipients and a discussion about undertaking research on issues of equity, diversity, and inclusion within library and information science across all library types. For those interested in the 2018-2019 ALA Diversity Research Grants, application information will be provided.

ACRL/SPARC Forum (ACRL)
CCC-Room 503/504

Join us for this popular and timely forum. The ACRL/SPARC Forum helps broaden the base of librarians who are knowledgeable about and engaged in scholarly communication issues. This timely and engaging conversation is sponsored by ACRL’s Research and Scholarly Environment Committee and the Scholarly Publishing and Academic Resources Coalition (SPARC).

Measures that Matter: Planning for Action (COSLA)
CCC-Room 501/502

Throughout 2017 the Chief Officers of State Library Agencies and the Institute of Museum and Library Services carried out the Measures that Matter (“MtM”) project (http://measuresthatmatter.net/). The final deliverable is an Action Plan intended to be taken up in 2018 and beyond by the field. At this session members of the MtM Working Group will present the Action Plan draft. This is an opportunity for you to hear about the plan and contribute feedback as the plan is finalized in late February.
A Research Agenda for 21st Century Libraries (ALA-ORE)
CCC-Room 503/504
As part of ALA's strategic planning process, the ALA Office for Research and Evaluation and the Committee on Research and Statistics have been asked to create a research agenda for libraries. During this session, presenters will share the completed research agenda, which prioritizes research in the following areas: diversity, equity, and inclusion; library impact; adaptive responses to funding threats; and strategies for staff development. Staff working in all library types are encouraged to attend and discuss strategies for implementing the agenda.

Incorporating the "Teen Services Competencies for Library Staff " into LIS Curricula (YALSA)
CCC-Room 501/502
How can LIS educators and continuing education coordinators leverage YALSA's new "Teen Services Competencies for Library Staff" (http://www.ala.org/yalsa/guidelines/yacompetencies) to better prepare future staff to work for and with teens? This session will explore how the competencies can be integrated into instruction, used in continuing education, or advance professional development activities. YALSA will share suggested strategies for embedding the competencies into curricula and gather feedback from attendees to refine the strategies.

Implementing YALSA's "Teen Services Competencies for Library Staff" in Your Library (YALSA)
CCC-Room 501/502
YALSA's new "Teen Services Competencies for Library Staff" (http://www.ala.org/yalsa/guidelines/yacompetencies) outlines the skills all library staff need to effectively serve teens - from interaction with teens and families to learning environments and experiences, community and family engagement, cultural competency, and outcomes and assessment. This interactive session will help library staff more effectively use and communicate these competencies in their libraries, and provide feedback to YALSA on support libraries need to implement them.

ULC 2018 - Updates and Insights (ULC)
CCC-Room 503/504
Join us for an update on the new and innovative work of the Urban Libraries Council and its nearly 150 member libraries. Focusing on three main issue areas—education, digital inclusion and healthy, sustainable communities—ULC is at the forefront of innovative work in the public library and local government arenas. Learn how ULC will set benchmarks in the areas on technology, education and entrepreneurship through Edge 2.0. Also learn about the important work ULC and its member libraries are doing around race and social equity. North America’s urban libraries are at the forefront of many movements. Get a glimpse of the great work they are doing in this session.

LITA Top Technology Trends (LITA)
CCC-Room 503/504
LITA's premier program on changes and advances in technology. Top Technology Trends features our ongoing roundtable discussion about trends and advances in library technology by a panel of LITA technology experts and thought leaders. The panelists will describe changes and advances in technology that they see having an impact on the library world, and suggest what libraries might do to take advantage of these trends. More information about the program is available at the Top Tech Trends site.

Value of Academic Libraries Initiative - An Update (ACRL)
CCC-Room 501/502
ACRL’s recent report, “Academic Library Impact: Improving Practice and Essential Areas to Research,” developed with OCLC Research, investigates how libraries can increase student learning and success and effectively communicate their value to higher education stakeholders. Join members of ACRL’s Value of Academic Libraries committee to hear about the context for this action-oriented research agenda and plans for future directions, including new programs for travel scholarships and research mini-grants. This forum will allow community members to ask questions and give reactions to the report.

Connected Learning in Libraries - New Research and Resources to Help Develop, Implement, and Evaluate (YALSA)
CCC-Room 501/502
With the support of foundations and federal agencies, librarians have introduced and expanded connected learning programs in libraries. To help support the development, implementation, and evaluation of these efforts, two new resources are available for youth librarians. ConnectedLib offers a suite of professional development resources aimed at building librarians’ capacity to promote connected learning and 21st century skills. Capturing Connected Learning in Libraries provides practical evaluation strategies for measuring connected learning outcomes. Come and learn about the research and process behind the development of these resources.

Late Breaking News from the ALA Washington Office (ALA-WO)
CCC-Room 501/502
A new session of Congress begins, Congressional leadership roles change, and some decision makers have legislative agendas, but only some have a chance of making it out of the block. Hear what is in store for libraries this year inside the Beltway!

OCLC Research Update (OCLC)
CCC-Room 503/504
Learn about recent and upcoming collaborative projects, pilots, and published reports from OCLC Research and its Research Library Partnership (RLP) and WebJunction programs. Constance Malpas will discuss "University Libraries; University Futures,” a grant-funded project in collaboration with Ithaka S+R. Also, Rachel Frick will walk through the position paper, “Research and Learning Agenda for Archives, Special, and Distinctive Collections in Research Libraries,” intended as a map with many potential routes for exploration between OCLC and allied institutions. Sharon Streams will host, and the agenda will include Q&A.

“The Newcomers” by Helen Thorpe

Helen Thorpe of The Newcomers, along with a paraprofessional from Denver’s South High School and a member of the Colorado African Organization, will discuss refugee crises around the globe, and how the US is at a political crossroads around questions of immigration, multiculturalism, and America’s role on the global stage. Thorpe’s The Newcomers follows the lives of twenty-two immigrant teenagers, many of them refugees, throughout the course of the 2015–16 school year as they land at South High School, in an English Language Acquisition class created specifically for them. Speaking no English, unfamiliar with American culture, their stories are poignant and remarkable as they find deep fulfillment in doing their work, while still facing the enormous challenge of adapting.

Inspire Kids To Be Readers and Writers with The Story Pirates and New York Times bestselling author Geoff Rodkey

Sponsored by Rodale Books and Rodale Kids, Grow Readers With Us

Booth 2110

Using their new book The Story Pirates Present: Stuck in the Stone Age performers from the world famous Story Pirates will present a light version of the book’s story on stage, while author Geoff Rodkey explains what it takes to come up with characters, plot lines, and other elements of a novel using someone else’s original idea—in this case, one from a real kid! A laugh-out-loud time-travel adventure, Stuck in the Stone Age is the first in a series of novels that double as an introduction to the basics of creative writing. With the help of Story Pirate Captain Rolo Vincent and the Story Creation Zone, kids can use this kid-generated sci-fi comedy as inspiration to create their OWN great stories!

Graphic novelist Nate Powell will COME AGAIN: Life after the National Book Award

Sponsored by Top Shelf Productions / IDW Publishing

Booth 1751

One year ago, New York Times bestseller Nate Powell (SWALLOW ME WHOLE) made history as the first cartoonist to win the National Book Award (for MARCH, the civil rights memoir trilogy written by Congressman John Lewis & Andrew Aydin), not to mention the Printz, CSK, Sibert, and YALSA Nonfiction Awards! Now he returns to solo work as the writer/artist of COME AGAIN, a full-color graphic novel for adults coming this summer. It’s a haunting tale of intimacy, guilt, and collective amnesia, set in a fading Arkansas “intentional community” where hippie idealism has weathered into compromise… and the secrets binding two families threaten to awaken something monstrous. Don’t miss the evolution of the man Booklist called “the most prodigiously talented graphic novelist” of his generation.

Image Comics: Infinite Worlds for Younger Readers

Sponsored by Image Comics, Inc.

Booth 2002

Celebrating food literacy by cooking with love and "sohn-massh" with kids: Children's story, Korean Kimchi, street food and new American food culture remix
Sponsored by READERS to EATERS
Booth 1806

Food literacy means developing literacy about food as well as building literacy through food. "Sohn-massh" is the flavors in our fingertips. It is the love Korean mothers mix into their handmade foods. June Jo Lee, co-author of CHEF ROY CHOI AND THE STREET FOOD REMIX (2018-2019 Texas Bluebonnet Award Master List/ 2018 Orbis Pictus Nonfiction Award Honor) and a food ethnographer who studies how America eats, will share her favorite childhood food from her native South Korea, and the story of chef Roy Choi, the Korean American chef in Los Angeles who kickstarted the national food truck movement and now promoting social justice through his new fast food chain, Locol. Time magazine named Choi among "100 Most Influential People in the World in 2016."

Press Pause: Guided Meditation for Librarians
Sponsored by Penguin Random House Audio/Books on Tape & Shambhala Publications

Meditation relieves stress, soothes anxiety and even helps you sleep—but it can be challenging to tune out the everyday noise. Listening to an inspirational audio-book can help develop your meditation practice. Take a break from the bustle of the exhibit floor to reflect and refresh with a meditation session hosted by Penguin Random House Audio/Books on Tape and Shambhala Publications. An instructor will lead a breathing exercise to relax and center, followed by a guided meditation from respected teacher Pema Chödrön’s bestselling When Things Fall Apart: Heart Advice for Difficult Times (now available as an unabridged audio-book for the first time) read by narrator Cassandra Campbell. The first 50 attendees will receive a gift bag featuring a print copy and audio download code for When Things Fall Apart.

WNDB Presents: To Niche or not To Niche: Shelving Diverse Books in Your Collection
Sponsored by We Need Diverse Books

We Need Diverse Books invites you to a lively and dynamic discussion about the benefits and goals of highlighting books as diverse. Shelving choices play a major role in which books are checked out of libraries, and by whom. How does marking a book as diverse change who reads it? What is the value and harm of sections like LGBT+ and African-American literature? Is "Diverse Books" a theme for a display? What alternatives exist? How can we both celebrate and integrate diverse stories in library collections? Panelists will explore related questions that has shaped their work. Panelists will also discuss the current issues facing the Colorado literary community. Join Margaret Coel (Wind River Mysteries, Winter’s Child), Stephen Graham Jones (Mongrels, Mapping the Interior), Manuel Ramos (My Bad: A Mile High Noir, The Skull of Pancho Villa) and Mark Stevens (The Allison Coil Mysteries, Lake of Fire) for vibrant conversation, good reads and some insight into the beauty of the West!

Powered Libraries: 7 Success Stories

Powered Libraries: 7 Success Stories highlights the forward-thinking innovation happening in seven unique libraries—from a private tribal library striving to retain a dying language to an out-of-this world informational outpost perched high in the Davis Mountains. Meet the members of a tiny community with big hearts at Texas’ second-smallest public library (measuring at only 720-square feet!) and climb aboard a book bus that measures success in smiles per gallon!

44 PAGES

Highlights has been a staple in the children’s literature and teaching and learning world for decades and the magazine’s relationship with librarians throughout the country (and world) has always been strong. 44 PAGES is the perfect film for your conference for librarians and is ideal for exploring the state of print media, the history of magazine publishing, children’s book authoring and illustration, teaching and learning, amongst others.

ENTREPRENEURIAL HISTORY

• Highlights has been family-owned since its inception in 1946.
• Kent Johnson, the great grandson of the magazine founders, a Harvard educated Physicist, and self-proclaimed science geek-turned-head of the family business, made a huge life change when he took over the company and credits his successes at the helm to his naııveté about the publishing industry and state of education.
• Kent answers to the “family council”—a group of more than 300 descendants of the founders who are all stakeholders focused on the stewardship of the founding philosophies.
• The magazine has been innovative from the start—putting it in doctors offices with one subscription card ripped out so people aren’t uncomfortable being the first one to rip it out.

Highlights For Children

My Friend Dahmer

In 2013, My Friend Dahmer won an Alex Award, and was honored as a Great Graphic Novels for Teens Top Ten and Quick Picks for Reluctant Readers Top Ten. Nature versus nurture is one of our most fundamental debates. And while the graphic novel or the film adaptation don’t provide the answers, it is both the author’s and director’s hope that audiences will ask themselves the tough questions: What are those forces in life that sculpt and define us? How do we become who we are? Why does one teenage find promise, while his friend enters adulthood broken? How well do we know our friends? And in the future, one might look at a troubled teen through a more empathetic lens. It’s a story of its time, but it is also sadly relevant today.

Black Girl in Suburbia

For many Black girls raised in the suburbs, the experiences of going to school, playing on the playground, and living day-to-day life can be uniquely alienating. BLACK GIRL IN SUBURBIA looks at the suburbs of America from the perspective of women of color. Filmmaker Melissa Lowery shares her own childhood memories of navigating racial expectations both subtle and overt—ranging from questions like, “Hey, I just saw a Black guy walking down the street; is that your cousin?”

Through conversations with her own daughters, with teachers and scholars who are experts in the personal impacts of growing up a person of color in a predominately white place, this film explores the conflicts that many Black girls in homogeneous hometowns have in relating to both white and Black communities. BLACK GIRL IN SUBURBIA is a great discussion starter for Freshman orientation week and can be used in a wide variety of educational settings including classes in sociology, race relations, African American Studies, Women’s Studies, and American Studies.

Ohero:kon - Under the Husk

UNDER THE HUSK follows two Mohawk girls on their journey to become Mohawk women. Friends since childhood, Kainenkwinetha and Kasennakohe are members of the traditional community of Akwesasne on the U.S./Canada border. Together, they undertake a four-year rite of passage for adolescents, called Ohero:kon, or “under the husk.” The ceremony had been nearly extinct, a casualty of colonialism and intergenerational trauma; revived in the past decade by two traditional leaders, it has since flourished. Filmmaker Katsitsionni Fox has served as a mentor, or “auntie,” to many youth going through the passage rites. In UNDER THE HUSK, Fox shares two girls’ journey through adolescence, as they rise to the tasks of Ohero:kon, learning traditional practices such as basket making and survival skills as well as contemporary teachings about sexual health and drug and alcohol prevention. UNDER THE HUSK is a personal story of a traditional practice challenging young girls spiritually, mentally, emotionally, and physically, shaping the women they become.

Quest

This documentary touches all of the hot points of American Society today—politics and race, gender and equality, the economy and the growing distance between the upper and (no longer) middle to lower classes, voting rights and the rise of an angry right wing faction, as seen through the eyes of one family over the course of a decade. A Sundance film that resonates on so many levels.

GEEK GIRLS

Nerdy women—the “hidden half” of fan culture—open up about their lives in the world of conventions, video games, and other rife-with-misogyny pop culture touchstones. While geek communities have recently risen to prominence, very little attention is paid to geek women. Filmmaker Gina Hara, struggling with her own geek identity, explores the issue with a cast of women who live geek life up to the hilt: A feminist geek blogger, a convention-trotting cosplayer, a professional gamer, a video-game designer, and a NASA engineer. Through their personal experiences in the rich cultural explosion of nerdom, GEEK GIRLS shows both the exhilaration of newfound community and the ennui of being ostracized. These women, striving in their respective professions and passions, face the cyberbullying, harassment, and sexism that permeate the culture and the industry at large. A rich conversation-starter for any class on Pop Culture and Feminism.

Nothing Without Us: The Women Who Will End AIDS

This is the story of the women of color who have saved countless lives—including their own—through their work at the forefront of the global AIDS movement; it’s the first and only documentary about this missing chapter in HIV/AIDS activism. Combining archival footage with contemporary interviews, the film shines a light on the activists, scholars, and scientists who have shaped grassroots groups like ACT-UP, and who fought to open access to prevention and treatment while facing their fears and everyday struggles. From beauty parlors in Baton Rouge to the first HIV clinic in Burundi to the set of a television show in Nigeria, this film looks boldly at the unaddressed dynamics that keep women at high-risk for HIV, while introducing the remarkable women who have the answers to ending this 30-year-old pandemic.

The Colorado Convention Center (CCC)
Sustainability Quick Facts

Q: How do we donate leftover conference materials?
A: The CCC has a Reclaim Room at the center to help accommodate unused or unwanted conference materials that can be reused. If interested in donating materials, please consolidate into one location (preferably on the Exhibit Hall level if possible), Contact the Sustainable Program Manager at 303.681.1768 or ask your Event Manager.

Q: Do you utilize types of alternative energy?
A: In 2009 the CCC installed a 300kw rooftop solar array that generates approximately 350,000kwh per year.

Q: What are some volunteer projects to participate in while in Denver? What do you recommend?
A: In 2010, the CCC adopted 8 acres of land along the Platte River to maintain in its natural habitat. The CCC can help organize a volunteer project with your attendees with this area. This experience includes an ecology talk by a natural ecologist and is only 20 minutes walking distance from the center. Contact the Sustainable Program Manager at 303.681.1768 for more information on this opportunity or a list of others.

Centerplate at the Colorado Convention

Centerplate makes a conscious effort to practice sustainability in everyday procedures. Engaging in both recyclable and compostable programs enables them to work in a productive environment while maintaining a high level of corporate social responsibility.

In an effort to be sustainable they source products from various local Colorado vendors and farms and maintain their own on-site farm—The Blue Bear Farm.

In addition, Centerplate partners with “We Don’t Waste,” which allows Centerplate to minimize the waste of nutritious and wholesome foods by donating leftover items to a wide variety of local non-profit organizations that provide for Denver’s underserved.

GES

GES is the first and only global, full service events provider to earn APEX/ASTM Level 2 certification and ISP 20121. Sustainability is in their core values and implemented it in every aspect of their services.

- 95% of GES lifts and riggers are powered by natural gas.
- Furniture at GES is reused 6X then refurbished/customer sale.
- GES has processed over 150,000 previously printed orders to paperless.

By moving more content to the app, we have been able to reduce the size of the program book. With greater adoption of the mobile app, less people request a printed program. See page 49 for details.

PRG

PRG has implemented a company wide Green Policy to minimize the impact of its operations on the environment. This Green Policy includes the following practices:

- PRG periodically collects lighting, audio, video and scenic operations and delivers it to salvage yards where it can be melted down and reprocessed for reuse.
- PRG minimizes fuel consumption by combining orders on trucks whenever possible and transferring inventory between depots to minimize long-distance LTL deliveries.
Find yourself sitting all day?

FOLLOW THESE TIPS TO KEEP YOURSELF FEELING FIT AND MOTIVATED WHILE AT ALA.

Leg extensions

Take a seat, this stretch works your hips, thighs, shins and ankle. Try it! Start by sitting on the edge of your chair and your arms by your sides for stabilization. Extend your left leg straight out and flex your foot. By flexing your foot you engage the muscles in your shin and ankle. Try to lift your leg as high as you can without rounding your back. Hold for 3 seconds and lower. You’ve got it! Try 3 sets of 10 reps on each leg.

Seated Press-Ups

Get up, work your triceps and relieve spinal compression. Try it! Sit in a chair with your feet firmly grounded on the floor. Place your hands on the arm rests of the chair, press down and extend your arms straight raising your body off the chair. Ensure correct posture by keeping your head lined up over your pelvis, this will allow your spine to “dangle” and unravel straight down creating space between each vertebrae. Either hold this position to focus on your spine or push up and down to work the backs of the arm more. You’ve got it! Repeat 4 times if holding. If lifting and lowering, try 3 sets of 10 reps.

Watch that slouch!

Good posture is key. Whether you sit or stand, keep your shoulders back, abs in and your head tall. Learn! Posture and your abdominal muscles are a two-way street. A good posture naturally helps strengthens your abs, at the same time exercises focused on the abs supports an improved posture. Try it! Perfect posture for a sitting position. Follow these 3 steps.

1. Sit at the end of your chair, feet flat on the floor, and knees equal to your hips and slouch completely.
2. Draw yourself up and accentuate the curve of your back as far as possible. Hold for a few seconds.
3. Release the position slightly about 10 degrees. Got it! This is a good sitting posture for you.

Move!

A relaxed and supported posture is the goal. Muscles can tire from sitting in the same position for an extended period. This can lead to slumping and other poor postures. To prevent this from happening take breaks from sitting every 30min and stretch, stand or walk.

Denver The Mile High City

Tips for High-Altitude

With an elevation of exactly one mile or 5,280 feet above sea level, Denver is known as the highest major city in the U.S. For this reason, you might find the air in Denver to be thinner and dryer. In fact, many people with respiratory problems move to Denver for the benefits of the dry air.

DRINK WATER Before your trip to Denver, and while you are here, drinking plenty of water is the number one way to help your body adjust easily to the higher altitude. The low humidity in Colorado keeps the air dry, like the desert, so you need about twice as much water here as you would drink at home.

MONITOR YOUR ALCOHOL INTAKE In Denver’s rarified air, golf balls go ten percent farther... and so do cocktails. Alcoholic drinks pack more of a wallop than at sea level. It is recommended that you go easy on the alcohol in the mountains and in Denver, as its effects will feel stronger here.

EAT FOODS HIGH IN POTASSIUM Foods such as broccoli, bananas, avocado, cantaloupe, celery, greens, bran, chocolate, granola, dates, dried fruit, potatoes and tomatoes will help you replenish electrolytes by balancing salt intake.

WATCH YOUR PHYSICAL ACTIVITY The effects of exercise are more intense here. If you normally run 10 miles a day at home, you might try 6 miles in Denver.

PACK FOR SUN With less water vapor in the air at this altitude, the sky really is bluer in Colorado. But there’s 25 percent less protection from the sun, so sunscreen is a must. Denver receives over 300 days of sunshine each year (more than San Diego or Miami). Bring sunglasses, sunscreen, lip balm... even in winter.

DRESS IN LAYERS Because the sun is especially powerful in Denver, it can feel much warmer than the actual temperature during the daytime, but then become very chilly after sundown, particularly in the Spring and Fall. It is best to layer your clothing.

Orientation
Saturday, February 10 • 8:30 am
This orientation is intended for people who are not familiar with the ALA JobLIST Placement & Career Development Center. We will walk around the Center and discuss the available services and activities. Both employers and job seekers are welcome to attend. Staff will be available to answer your questions.

Career Counseling
Saturday, February 10 • 9:00 am – 5:00 pm
Sunday, February 11 • 1:30 pm – 5:00 pm
Recharge your career by meeting with a professional career coach. She can guide you in strategizing for the next phase of your career, solving a problem in your current job situation, defining goals, and/or rejuvenating your career. Each one-on-one session is 20 minutes, and is completely confidential.

If you have never experienced career counseling, or just haven’t used this type of service in a long time, this is the perfect opportunity to either introduce yourself to or reacquaint yourself with a service that can be useful throughout your career. Take advantage of the opportunity to talk with a knowledgeable professional about your career concerns. This service is free and available whenever the Placement Center is open.

On-the-Fly Mentoring
Saturday, February 10 • 9:00 am – 12:00 pm
Sunday, February 11 • 1:00 pm – 4:00 pm
Looking for some professional guidance and advice? If so, you should stop by the Placement Center for the ACRL—University Libraries Section’s “On-the-Fly” Mentoring to talk with an experienced librarian about any and all aspects of your career. Mentoring sessions are available by appointment and on a first-come, first-served drop-in basis.

Open House/Job Fair
Sunday, February 11 • 10:30 am – 12:00 pm
Employers will be available to talk to conference attendees about their institutions. You do not have to be an active job seeker to attend. Conference attendees can feel free to walk around and talk to employers. No appointment necessary. There is no cost to attend or participate.

Photography Service
Sat. & Sun., February 10 & 11 • 9:00 am – 5:00 pm
We will be offering all attendees the opportunity to have a “headshot” photo package created. Any attendee can sign-up for an appointment with ALA’s conference photography team to have a professional photo taken and set of digital images created for the attendees’ use in job applications, social media and other networking opportunities. There is a nominal fee of $20 which can be paid with a check, money order, or cash.

Resume Review Service
Sat. & Sun., February 10 & 11 • 9:00 am – 5:00 pm
If you need help getting your resume polished, stop by the Placement Center while you are at conference. Come and discover the best way to show your most recent accomplishments with an updated resume. The resume critiquing service is free and available whenever the Placement Center is open.
Listed below are the sessions that will be held in the ALA JobLIST Placement & Career Development Center. There is no cost to attend. Registration is not required.

Career Development Workshops (CDW)

CDW: The Key to Getting Interviews: Great Cover Letters and Resumes
Saturday, February 10 • 9:30 am – 10:30 am
CCC-Placement Center
You can’t show the hiring manager what a perfect fit you are for that job you really want if you can’t get an interview. Effective cover letters and resumes can be the key to getting your foot in the door. Get tips from someone who reviews cover letters and resumes daily—a human resource director. Bring your resume and be prepared to leave with ideas for polishing your resume and cover letters so that you can start getting those interviews.
Presenter: Dan Hoppe, Associate Executive Director, Human Resources, American Library Association

CDW: Ask Our Employers: Open Q & A
Saturday, February 10 • 11:00 am – 12:00 pm
CCC-Placement Center
Do you have any questions you’ve been wanting to ask an employer? Well this is your opportunity to ask. Employers who will have a recruitment booth in the ALA Placement Center will be available to answer your general questions. If you want to know about salaries, or the interview process, or any number of other things, you can ask our employers. There will be no formal presentations. The employers will be in the Placement Center just waiting to answer your employment-related questions.

CDW: The NEW Networking Game: Making Connections for Career Success
Saturday, February 10 • 1:00 pm – 2:00 pm
CCC-Placement Center
The Networking Game—information and idea exchange for mutual benefit—has been in play since people started talking around a campfire. It’s much “noisier” in the 21st century with the introduction of social media, so how can you cut through the distractions and stay on course? Topics include maintaining discipline and focus, building your online profile, finding and maintaining quality connections, and how the rules of networking apply to both online and “in-person” encounters.
Presenter: Pat Wagner, Library Consultant and Trainer

CDW: HR Confidential: Insider Tips on Applying for Library Jobs from HR Directors
Sunday, February 11 • 9:30 am – 10:30 am
CCC-Placement Center
An informal discussion/Q&A session where you can gain an insider’s perspective on the recruitment process from experienced HR Directors. Get tips on how to make your application stand out. Find out how to be your own best advocate for professional development and career advancement. Explore negotiation strategies to ensure you get the most out of your offer package. All questions are welcome.

It’s Your Future - Get Ready for it Now!
Sunday, February 11 • 10:30 am – 11:30 am
CCC-Room 405/407
Part of the 2018 Symposium on the Future of Libraries
Wouldn’t it be nice to know more about what the future holds for your field and your career? Well, you can! No crystal ball needed. Come join our lively discussion to learn about emerging trends that will make a difference for library professionals. We’ll look at why it’s so important to pay attention to trends, develop a “future mindset” and practice preferred futuring. We’ll also explore 17 critical trends and how you can use them to develop a career/professional development plan guaranteed to keep you on the cutting edge. Come, join us as we step into the future!
Presenter: Caitlin Williams, Ph.D., Career Consultant for ALA’s Office for Human Resource Development and Recruitment (HRDR)

CDW: Professional Etiquette 101
Sunday, February 11 • 1:00 pm – 2:30 pm
HYATT-Capitol Ballroom 5 & 6
There are times—nearly every day—when you have to make a choice of whether to use good etiquette or possibly risk embarrassment. Good manners can mean the difference between success and failure in many aspects of life. This interactive presentation will equip you with essential skills to help you put your best foot forward and avoid making a faux pas. The session focuses on professional etiquette as it relates to dining, dress/appearance (for job interviews, business receptions, etc.), behavior and communications in the professional world. We will provide an extensive tutorial on etiquette skills needed when meeting potential employers, colleagues, or others in professional and social networking settings.
It does not matter if you are a student, a new graduate, or a professional who has been working for years. The information provided in this session will be useful either as an introduction or a refresher. Everyone who attends can benefit.
Cost is complimentary. Registration required.
Presenters: Beatrice Calvin, MACMH, CDF, Manager of Professional Development, ALA Office for Human Resource Development and Recruitment (HRDR); Kimberly L. Redd, MSHTM, Program Officer, Education (HRDR) & Certification (APA)

CDW: Successfully Applying for Your First Manager, Director, or Dean Position
Sunday, February 11 • 3:00 pm – 4:00 pm
CCC-Placement Center
Being smart, experienced, credentialed, and successful as a supervisor or manager is not a guarantee that you will make the leap to a leadership role. Learn how to establish that you understand the leader’s point of view, the importance of focusing on the future and the big picture, political savvy in your community or institution, recruiting and delegating to your executive team, and why loving cataloging, the reference desk, and story hour will not be enough.

TIPS

Basics
Explore your interests and learn something new. Wear your nametag to meetings and social events. Bring business cards. Use the maps provided in this program book. Take advantage of the free conference shuttles. For last-minute changes check the show daily. COGNOTES; the Conference Scheduler at www.alamidwinter.org/scheduler; and/or Twitter (#alamw18).

Design Your Conference
Use the Conference Scheduler to design your experience—match the programs, poster sessions, discussion groups, speaker series, and social events to your interests, expertise, and organization’s initiatives. (A mobile app is available—see page 49 for how to download it, or check www.alamidwinter.org/mobile-app.) Schedule your days to fit times and places and have alternate events in mind just in case—and it’s ok to arrive late or leave early. Allocate plenty of time for the Exhibits.

Network and Stay Connected
Meet people and network like mad—talk to others, ask questions, share information, and learn from the thousands of other attendees, ALA staff, and exhibitors. You may just meet a potential collaborator, mentor, or friend for life. Keep connections—make notes and send follow-ups to the contacts and presenters you meet. When you get home, apply your experiences, review your notes, share new ideas you learned with your co-workers.

When the world’s information is within reach of every individual, nothing will stand in the way of a brighter future. Together as OCLC, libraries connect people to the information they need to solve problems, push boundaries and make a difference.

Because what is known must be shared.

General Information

Accessibility Information
ALA works to make sure your experience will be a pleasant and accessible one. Here are the features we have in place to ensure the ALA 2018 Midwinter Meeting is accessible to all:

- We caption our main sessions, e.g., President’s Program, Membership Meeting, Council Meetings, and others as requested by organizers.
- We have accessible sleeping rooms in our hotel block. There are rooms for people who are deaf, blind, and attendees who use wheelchairs. Please fill out the housing form and check the appropriate box. An onPeak representative will contact you to make sure you are placed in an appropriate room.
- Leader animals of all kinds are welcome throughout the ALA Conference.
- Listening devices are available for those who are hard of hearing.
- Our shuttle bus company has accessible buses, call (310) 425-2443 to make reservations. Further instructions on how to obtain rides are available in each hotel, in the convention center on-site, and in the on-site newspaper, COGNOTES.
- Based upon availability in each city, we maintain a limited number of wheelchairs and scooters on a first-come, first-served basis.

Conference Services coordinates interpreting services for people who are deaf, deafblind, or hard of hearing. To request accommodations, please the conference services accessibility hotline onsite at (312) 280-3225 or confaccess@ala.org.

An interpreter is also on-call in the Conference Services in the Colorado Convention Center, Thursday through Monday for last minute requests on a first-come, first-served basis.

ALA Store
Longer hours make it more convenient to shop and browse at the ALA Store in the Lobby B. The ALA Store offers products that meet the widest range of your promotional and continuing education/professional development needs—as well as fun gift items. Child Care at the Midwinter Meeting
ALA will reimburse the charges expended on childcare in the amount of $25 per day, per child to a maximum of $50 per day, per family to any fully registered parent for each day of the Midwinter Meeting week, February 9 – February 12, 2018. You must provide a receipt for childcare. This covers only childcare in the parent’s hotel room or other residence in the meeting city and does not include charges for children’s food and transportation or gratuities and transportation for the sitter. ALA will not reimburse childcare expenses to attendees who live within the Denver area that would be paid to the regular provider whether the parent was attending the Midwinter Meeting or not. Parents may contact their hotel childcare center/babysitting service where it is available or find one online. Reimbursement forms are available at the ALA Conference Services Desk and must be signed by the individual performing the childcare services and presented by the parent to the Conference Services Desk by Monday, February 12, 2018. Please note that all reimbursement will be mailed out to the attendee following the Conference.

“Children In The Exhibit Hall” Policy
Strollers are permitted on the exhibit floor but only if there is a child in them at all times. Unescorted children are not permitted on the exhibit floor. Children under the age of five must be under control at all times (stroller, pack, etc.). Any child over the age of five must have an Exhibits Only badge to be admitted to the exhibit floor. These badges are available at onsite registration for $60. An adult must accompany all children under the age of 16.

Coat Check
Coat Check is $3 per item and is in CCC-Lobby A.

Saturday 7:30 am – 6:00 pm
Sunday 7:30 am – 6:00 pm
Monday 7:30 am – 6:00 pm

COGNOTES—The Official Daily Newspaper
COGNOTES is the daily newspaper published and staffed by a group of ALA member volunteers. The COGNOTES office is open for submissions from 10:00am – 2:00pm, Friday through Monday during the Midwinter Meeting at the ALA Office in the Four Seasons Ballroom. The publication includes highlights of Midwinter events, important meeting times and room changes, photographs, and news items relating to the Meeting. The paper is published Friday through Monday during the Midwinter Meeting, and a special digital Highlights issue (Issue No. 5) will be emailed to all ALA members following the Meeting. An online version will be available to all members at www.alamidwinter.org. COGNOTES is available in the Registration Hall at the convention center, in the COGNOTES office, and at several other locations throughout the convention center. News and informational contributions will be considered for publication on a daily basis. The deadline for news items is 2:00pm the day before publication.
